To be short, Red Pill Content is derived from a concept in the cinematic movie "THE MATRIX". Once you consume the "RED PILL" ...How the real world works will be revealed to you. And you will never be able to un-see these truths about how the world of relationships and marriage actually work; and play out true to life.

What you will learn is an 'expanded understanding of the nature of women' and the roll of men. And how church and state have intervened in the sanctity of marriage for commercial purposes. Since the Woman's Liberation Movement of the early 1970's the modern woman has risen in social, political and economical status. And this has opened a pandora's box of new challenges and unrealistic expectations which eligible men need to be conscious and cautious of.

The late Podcaster, Kevin Samuels and Author, Shahrazad Ali were the first to sound an alarm; warning the Black community about 'modern day hinderances' which disrupt African-American marriages. They were the messengers; who despite disclosing government statistics and case studies, they both were discredited by modern women and political feminist.

Governments are now seeing the consequences of this dynamic as a threat to the traditional family structure throughout our nation. The genders are mismatching, causing a disruption to the creation of the traditional institution of a nuclear family household. Single mother homes typically don't produce productive citizens. And Kevin Samuels was trying to forewarn Black women that eligible men (High Value Men) who meet their qualifications for a husband are disqualifying single mothers, overweight beauties, Career Divas and highly sexed women as wives. Women are the gatekeepers to intimacy, but men are the gatekeepers to marriage. And there exist plenty of available women who offer sexual intimacy on the cheap; without contractually entangling the state's enforcement's between husband and wife. The institution of marriage has become an unattractive option for many eligible men in America.
